Kannada translation of 'War and Peace ' by world leading novelist Leo Tolstoy of war and peace. This is a work that has been edited and translated into several English translations.

It includes some special ideas and details related to Tolstoy. More than five hundred characters in this work, which has a detailed writing plan, have increased the dignity of the novel. The work provides details about three wars that changed Russian life. It was written by senior critic O.L. Nagabhushanaswa translated me into Kannada.

Russian literature has its own value in Kannada translation history. War and Peace is a novel that follows the structure of a European-style novel, without a central character and without a single central character. Some scenes related to this novel and within the novel

Ris leaves the reader in awe.

Acha yoyya e mir' is the Russian name for the novel War and Peace. Mr

The word has the meaning of peace as well as society in Russian. Tolstoy started writing this novel in 1865. At the age of thirty-four. He got married in the same year. Tall's Toy, who eventually rewrote the entire novel seven times, faithfully copied what his wife, nineteen-year-old Sophia, wrote every day . Churchy was all over the novel. Her collaboration in the creation of the novel grew into a legend. It stunned everyone around the world. This novel was published from 1865 to 1869. At first the novel was intended to be called "1805" by Tall's Toy, then it was renamed "All E Well That Ends Well" but in the end what remained was Voyna e Mir.

Ri means the characters of Mahabharata, the details of the stories of those characters are our own century Just as there is a style in each part, even when the author recreated the work, the characters of War and Peace took a different shape. Just as thousands of Arjuns , thousands of Sitas took shape in our minds, a thousand fathers, a thousand Andrews, a thousand Natashas in the last hundred years. Over the years, they have been taking shape in the minds of countless readers around the world.

This novel, like the extensive mountain range of the Himalayas, is about fifty important Including the characters, more than five hundred characters are encountered in this novel. In this work, the colors of the three wars that changed Russian life are present. of science,

No other historical documents can convince the truths like this novel. War politics , changes in society, happiness, joy , happiness, dreams, fears, illusions and reality of the main characters are related to the history.

This is a poetic story in which sadness, stupidity , depression, small differences, death, love, the life of all classes of Russia are mixed together seamlessly. There is no such thing as a story that can be collected and told except that the story is born in Tolstoy's story. Without a 'center ' , without a central 'character' in this work, created in defiance of the structure of the European-style novel . Without beginning and end, there is a story that takes shape in various rhythmic patterns like a great musical ensemble. Most of the characters here are self-identified. They question the way of life. What is happiness ? Where is it? How can happiness be more than fun? Is it not possible to live knowing that death is certain? Are there benefits to keeping God's idea? Does fate play a role in human experiences? Accidental Ka palu Estu? Is there such a thing as complete freedom ? If yes, how to get it? Are there philosophical truths that we can rely on ? What should we do with this life of ours ? How do we tell experience so that it is not false ?

Waiting for Ri to be born.

Inno b of Russia Also 'Crime and Punishment' by the great novelist Dostoevsky

'War and Peace' was serialized in the same magazine , simultaneously with the first edition of the novel . 1805' , the first form of 'War and Peace' and 'Crime and Punishment' were published in the Russian Vesnik newspaper in 1866 , respectively, in January as Dostoevsky , and in February and March as Dostoevsky. Both Daskovsky's stance of the hero, that a great man can change the course of life, and Tolstoy in April, again Tolstoy's stance, that the course of life cannot be changed by the will of any one man, are the opposite. Again, it is surprising that the two minds of the century had very different answers to the debates in The Contemporary magazine about 'How to identify great men, what are the consequences of their actions'?

Riya stops talking. Many geniuses of the world were influenced by Tall's Toy. Mahatma Gandhi corresponded with Tals Toino Dane. His ashram in South Africa was named Tal's Toy Farm.
