

Let me remember who I am in the morning

In the morning, whose sister am I?

Rai Ta and Rai Ta who remember and welcome each day's morning by saying, ``Eddo Ndu Ghali Nenede Na II".

Women's thinking is more important and necessary today than ever before. with eternal nature

The spirit of companionship and seeing the divine in nature is characteristic of the Rai Tapi race.

Songs, stories and songs have increased the popularity of oral heritage. Their way of life, manners, rituals

- Ideas, traditions of the individual and society are all in folk songs and stories

All these are found to be valuable. Women are also at the center of folk literature

A girl. If you look at it like that, the agriculture sector is no exception. Very common. Marketing System, Agriculture

She is supreme in life and in all other activities. No matter how much she sweats in toil, she is

It is a matter of concern that the recognition of the farmer as a woman is still lacking. No matter how much the world has achieved in science and technology, even if . Even though the whole world is at our fingertips, it's not like that information is available on the mobile phone in the palm of your hand at any moment, you still need food to satisfy your hunger. it

You need food to grow. It helps the farmer to produce food that satisfies hunger

As a wife or as a farmer herself, she worked as a cook taking care of the children

His connection with life is unparalleled.

Exercising power, business management and money transactions are in the hands of men

But only the work related to it is in the hands of women. Figures

According to 1977-78, the number of men employed in agriculture was 80.06 percent. Women are 88.01 percent.

According to 2017-18, the proportion of men in agriculture has decreased to 55% while women are 73.05%.

He is in agriculture. However, the recognition that women bring rice is not recognized. Agriculture is the economic story of India.

Do not turn back . In rural areas, 75 percent of women are engaged in agriculture. Without her effort

Even though farming does not take place, only her labor does not come to the fore and is not recorded.

Most of the work is hers. Only the dividend is in the hands of men. This is the family with perseverance

The burden of responsibility is handled by paying attention to household chores, on the other hand to farming.

Faithfully participates in various tasks, especially from sowing to threshing.

She is really a hard worker. The concept of India being an agricultural country is actually more of a woman farmer than a farmer

Perseverance is more important than superlatives. This is a word recorded in the pages of history.

In the past there was a common mentality that the majority of the labor force was the peasantry, that is, the single man. Kala kreme na rai tapi

The nirva forehead nature of the activities changed. Agriculture is the source of food. Today agriculture has grown as an industry.

As per the change, the role of women has gained immense importance but she is still like a wage earner

Whether she is working or not, she is not respected as a friend. As a woman, taking care of children and . rearing . cooking family .

It is not true that the whole family's life is on her shoulders. The whole even in times of hardship depends on her mental state. Her work is unique in today's science and technology

Cultivation using it is important.

But in today's man, nature worship is on the wane. He is an integral part of nature

He is turned away from emotions. Various as a matter of relationship between nature and human race

Although dimensions are formed everywhere, admiration for nature is associated with it

A feeling is not enough to remain static. But the people, especially those who lead an agricultural life, are their daily life

Starting the Kayak with Surya Dayao. The work done by the hand is done by Surya Nu Bhutai

For hours until it fades into the lap.

The people of the rural areas serve nature and especially Bhutai with her memory.

Those who carry the creeping vine. In the current folk song

A woman who leads the life of a farmer questions herself.
Who am I in the morning?

Man is one of all the living beings formed by five elements. But the irony is that today he is seen as turning away from nature. Especially the literature created by the people today is not possible for the worship and remembrance of nature. Man creates different spheres in his life and thrives on selfishness. Even though he knows the truth that all his food, water and clothes are obtained from Bhuta, he does not feel grateful towards her. Sesame and ghee are essential grains in life. During the period from birth to death, these grains are consumed in one occasion or another. Mother Earth is the one who grows them. It is a fact that many kinds of grains like these grains grow in her lap. This is not known to humans. But nature's debt is hidden in the greed for money, and it feels like it is self-inflicted. A daughter who is married and lives in a house has her mother and hometown embedded in her heart Simplicity is found in expressing feelings towards.

May all the luck come to Kallu
Ko Ttavwa. May the son come to the house.

She screams. This stone is a stone stone. It is a basic tool for the life of the villagers. The mother who gave it to the mother who gave it to the mother is blessed to have a son and a daughter who touches the jasmine. A daughter who always follows the culture and wants a traditional daughter to come to her mother's house as a daughter-in-law is a model for girls of all times. This type of attitude, decisions and wishes are seen only among the people. Modern girls are forgetting the tradition and culture of kissing jasmine. As an exception, here and there, jasmine is seen blooming one by one, but it does not seem to be running. It is important that the people believed that the bee suva stone is equal to God. That is why his feelings were expressed like this, Kallamma Matai Mellammaragi Jallajallane Uduramma

I Nannige Belladarathi Belagena II

It is found that the people who call the bee suva stone as Mahatai keep their sense of gratitude in it. There is also a request in which the millet is slowly called bee si ko du kalluthai and the flour is poured out, I will do you a favor. In this way, the people have developed the height of seeing God in every thing they have. Also, those who have developed the eyes to see the form of God in everything - wind, light, water, plants, trees, vines.

Ganges and Ganges eg
» The place is revered by the people. They say that,
Belagai Naneddu Yarya Ra Neneyali
Kallu Kaveri Kapania I

Nenedara Hottiddapaapapapa

II Nenedara Hottiddapaapapapapapapapaa Nenedara As holy as fire, Ganga has the power to wash away man's taint and sin. This Ganga is essential from birth to death of man. Even today, people protect the Ganges

There is no cleaning, no remembering and worshipping in the morning. Everything will be seen as abandoned. However, once the sentiments and desires of the people are revealed in today's social life through folk literature, it is important to understand and act accordingly. In this background, this literature has to be brought face to face with the life of the people in the new era from the oral heritage.
